

Don't Have the Finances for Expensive Dental Care?

After three years of extensive research and development, Global Dental Healthcare can now provide a more viable and, shall we say, a more conscious alternative—in a model unequaled across the United States.

There are a large number of individuals (in the millions just in the U.S.) who are in the midst of facing complex dental treatments. Technology has introduced and made available many options, but at the same time, it has also, in many respects, made the choices complicated and often overwhelming. In addition, much of this treatment is quite costly to the point that it is unaffordable for most. As a result, people are often confused as to what to do, how to proceed and how they can afford any costly treatment, sometimes leading to dental procrastination or neglect. This can have significant effects on oral health as well as overall systemic health, and on one's psychological well-being.

Dr. Len Weldon and Dr. Steven Geller are retired/semi-retired oral surgeons. During their combined 70+ years of clinical practice, they helped many people achieve their goals of a healthy, comfortable mouth. After their retirement, many of their friends continued to come to them seeking advice about their dental concerns. Drs. Weldon and Geller saw that they could continue to serve people in the capacity of dental consultants. Their service soon extended outside of their local practice to many others in need of assistance throughout the United States, which led to the formation of Global Dental Healthcare.

Initially, there was no intent to help individuals go abroad for their dental care. However, after some in depth research into the entire nature of the problem, it became apparent that individuals could save in excess of 50% of their costs by traveling to Mexico. For many, this could translate into a savings of as much as $20,000 to $30,000!

They came to realize that if they were going to recommend any dental clinics abroad they needed to visit and perform a thorough vetting process of numerous facilities. They felt that their training and clinical experience in oral surgery uniquely qualified them to do this better than most of the other groups currently engaged in this type of referral business.

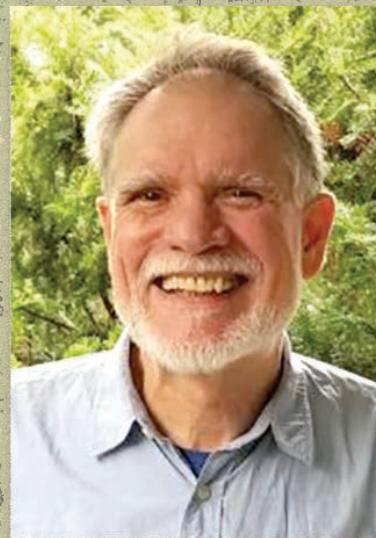

After years of extensive study and the combined efforts of their team, the model was perfected and GDH was officially launched in January of 2022. Now, with two personally vetted locations in Mexico (one across the Arizona border, and the other in the Cancun/Playa del Carmen/Cozumel area) GDH is bringing the concept of Medical Tourism to a new level. You can even spend time on the beautiful beach between appointments in our vetted dental clinics.

Contact GDH for a free video consultation with Dr. Steven and Dr. Len, where your existing treatment plan will be reviewed and options presented that will save you, on average, 50% or greater of what you've been quoted for the same procedures across the U.S. ■
